BURNING MOUTH SYNDROME

This condition is characterized by a burning sensation in the mouth, anywhere from the lips, cheeks, tongue, to the gums and palate. It is often accompanied by altered taste and a dry, cottony feeling. It disproportionately affects women and is linked to various factors, including dry mouth, vitamin deficiencies, and stress.

LICHEN PLANUS

Oral lichen planus is a chronic inflammatory condition that affects the mucous membranes of the mouth. It is characterized by white patches or lacy lines on the tissue, as well as burning, itching, or soreness. The cause is unknown, but it may be related to an autoimmune disorder, allergies, or infections.
